COMMENTS: I would like a contested case hearing. I live approximately 8 miles north from facility...with southerly winds carrying the pollutants over my house. I am highly sensitive to air-borne chemicals. My tongue, lips, nose, mouth, bronchial air passages and other respiratory effects. It is scary to be in bed and try to figure where you are going to put your tongue so you can breathe. In 2001, we were forced to move here from the Fort Worth area because I was house bound. Around 1996, we would leave our home because of the fire place smoke. In a few years, I was house bound all year because the contaminants had increased dramatically and I had breathing difficulties and, infections, and secondary infections. We found Livingston to have less haze than the many areas we have travelled. That is my measurement stick -- HAZE. There are no longer any days without haze - just hazy and more hazy. I am noticing more swelling in my lips, tongue and nose which I did not have in 2001. This means air quality is being compromised. In the allergist's office, I have seen little babies and children with swollen faces and agitation of the nerves because of the steroid medicine prescribed so they can be helped to breathe. Sometimes not successful. Even though this is a renewal and more contaminants may be approved, consideration must be given to this amount of contaminants and in addition all the extra contaminants which will be added to the same area from I69. No where in the notice I read did it mention the company working on improvements to their facility and procedures. Even a little percentage is going to be dangerous. I volunteer to be a test subject. My lips and voice will show immediate allergy reaction
