

NOTICE:

On July 1st, 2008, the Texas Drinking Water certification program was superseded by the National Environmental Laboratory Accreditation Conference (NELAC) program.

Since the Drinking Water certification program has been closed, laboratories must now be accredited under the NELAC standard instead.

Our NELAC web page can be accessed here:

Environmental Laboratory \(NELAC\) Accreditation

The application for NELAC accreditation can be found here:

Application for NELAC accreditation

Our current list of Fields of Accreditation (FoAs), which includes Drinking Water parameters, can be found here:

NELAC Fields of Accreditation

For any questions, please contact the Laboratory Accreditation Program at (512) 239 – 3754.
